

Going on vacation? Think about booking a boutique hotel

When people go on vacation or business trip, they use brand name hotels like the Comfort Inn or the Holiday Inn. While these hotels are good for getting a decent night's sleep, they do not offer much more than that comfortable bed. Yet, there is an alternative if you're looking for something a little more than a bed.

Well what is so different about a boutique hotel i hear you ask. Well for startets there is a greater emphasis on individual service. The idea is too make your stay a personal experience. You get the hospitality of home, and the luxury of a big name hotel.

Most early boutiques started out life in historic buildings. These antique estates where then modernized. All the technological modern conveniences where added. Widescreen tv's, wireless internet, satellite tv. Room service is added in as well.

If you want to stay in a place that is unique, you'll need to do some searching using the Internet. You may not realize it but many of the antique homes that are fixed up in New Orleans are actually boutique hotels. There are several of them to choose from and many use the 19th century as their theme. These older homes in New Orleans can be used for something more than museums when accented right.

Themes and local culture, artwork and handicrafts play a big impact on a boutique's decor. This adds a touch of originality and that chain hotels fail to match. This individuality makes them stand out from the chains. If you have ever wondered why all your previous experience at standard hotels have the same resonance, now you know.

The Hotel Union Square in San Francisco bases it's theme on the Prohibition era. Its rooms and hallways are decorated with black granite and cream travertine tile. Over in Chicago, The Whitehall Hotel is based on the 1920s. You actually feel as if you're having an experience at these hotels, rather than just switching off.

You will find boutiques in California, New York City, Cannes, Istanbul, Russia, you name it a boutique will be somewhere in the vicinity. Each hotel has something unique to offer its guests. From the local culture of native American indians, to the avantgarde cultural references of The Hotel Greulich, in Zurich,Switzerland.

Giving the enormous range of boutique hotels, and locations, do some research on the web if you plan to visit. Booking all the major cities should be carried out a couple of months in advance. Some boutique hotels are limited in space, from 10-100 rooms. Get your reservation in early to avoid disappointment. Read a few user reviews on the hotel you like before you book.

Boutique hotels can be a little more expensive than an average hotel. But the price is more than worth it. Luxury spas, fantastic service, opulent surroundings are all at the beckon of your fingertips.

Just this once, forget about the money, go ahead and spoil yourself. Your once in a lifetime trip may not be so memorable, unless of course you book an amazing boutique hotel.
